Raising a concern/complaint about Adult Social Services

What are you unhappy about?

Before you start it is important to be clear about what aspect of Adult Social Services you are unhappy about.

Possible examples include:

- Attitudes of staff
- Poor communication

QUICK TIP! Write down clearly and simply what it is you want to complain about.

What do you want to achieve?

Think as specifically and realistically as possible about what you want to achieve through your complaint.

Who do I raise a concern with? – Local Resolution

Local resolution is the first stage of a complaint and aims to resolve a complaint at a local level.

- Speak with the allocated social worker about any issues/concerns
- If you feel uncomfortable with this, then you can request to speak to their manager

Formal Complaint – Adult Social Service Complaints Procedure

If your complaint hasn't been resolved by the social worker or their manager or, there are serious concerns that require investigation, you might want to consider making a formal complaint.

Are there time limits for making a complaint?

You should make a complaint within 12 months of the event or within 12 months from when you realise you have something to complain about.

How to complain

email: complaints@cumbria.gov.uk

You should ensure that your email contains:

- Your full name
- Your postal address
- The date (where possible) and details of the complaint
- The service concerned where possible

QUICK TIP!

If you send a written complaint letter, keep a copy for your records so that you can refer to it later.

For social care complaints you can speak to an advisor on:

Allerdale and Copeland

West Cumbria House

PO Box 100

CA14 9BW

Telephone: 0300 373 3732

Carlisle

3rd Floor Cumbria House,

117 Botchergate,

Carlisle,

CA11RD

Telephone: 0300 373 3732

Email: customerserviceASC@cumberland.gov.uk

What should I put in my complaint?

- Your contact details
- A clear description of what you are complaining about and any queries/questions you would like answering
- The outcome(s) you would like from making the complaint, such as:
 - Changes in policies and procedures
 - Better information
 - An apology

QUICK TIP!

It might be helpful to keep a record of any telephone calls you make and keep copies of any letters you write or receive regarding your complaint.

Please see the next page for a complaints letter template.

Dear (Complaints Manager)

RE: Adult Social Care Complaint

I am writing to make a formal complaint about my experience of adult social care.

My complaint is that [Provide a description of what you are not satisfied with and any relevant dates]

This situation has caused me [describe the impact this issue has had on you, your family or others who have been affected by the problem]

The Points I would like addressing are [list the key things you want the complaint to look into and answer]:

As a result, I would like [describe what you think they should do to put things right.

Examples include an apology/an explanation / change in policies/ training]:

I look forward to hearing your response within the appropriate timeframe.

Yours sincerely,

[Signature & Name]

What will happen after I have made my complaint?

The complaints team will then make contact within 3 working days of receiving the complaint to acknowledge it and provide the name and contact details of the designated person who will deal with the complaint if this is known at that time.

The named person will then:

- Contact you by telephone or arrange a personal visit
- Listen carefully to the complaint and find out what you want the outcome to be.
- Discuss the best way to deal with the complaint and a plan will be put together which both parties sign.
- Try and let you know what actions will take place as a result of their enquiries into your complaint.
- All complaints are treated confidentially and the person dealing with your complaint will be the only one aware of it.

Every effort will then be made to resolve your complaint and reply to you within 20 days.

Additional Information

- If the complaint is taking longer than agreed to investigate the person responsible for handling the complaint should contact you with a new timescale and an update about the complaint.
- All complaints should be resolved within 6 months of the Complaints Manager receiving the complaint no matter how complex the complaint may be.

Possible Outcomes

There are many possible outcomes, some of which may be;

- give an explanation for the actions taken.
- request a reassessment of needs.
- reconsider an issue.
- change a decision.
- amend practice/procedures.
- consider financial redress; or
- make an apology.

What if I am not happy at the end of the complaints process?

If you are not satisfied with way your complaint was handled and investigated, you have the right to proceed to the Local Government Ombudsman (LGO).

The Ombudsman can be contacted at:

LGO Advice Team

PO BOX 4771

Coventry CV4 0EH

Tel: 0300 061 0614

Email advice@lgo.org.uk

Website www.lgo.org.uk

Local Government Ombudsman

The Ombudsman is independent, and their services are free and confidential.

The Ombudsman will not normally investigate your case unless you have already tried to resolve the problem using the complaints procedure unless it is very urgent, or you are particularly at risk. Additionally, if the local authority is taking more than 12 weeks to investigate the complaint and give you a satisfactory answer, the Ombudsman recommend contacting them as they may be able to look at the complaint without all stages of the complaint's procedure being completed.

You should submit a complaint no later than a year from the date of the incident you are complaining about or from when you first became aware of the matter. The Ombudsman can extend this time limit e.g. if the local authority complaints process took longer than a year.

Completing the Local Government Ombudsman (LGO) Form

The LGO online form can be found on their website:

http://www.lgo.org.uk/forms/ShowForm.asp?fm_fid=62

or you can e-mail or call them on 0300 061 0614 and request that a form be posted or emailed to you.

The LGO initially only ask for the final complaint response from the local authority when submitting this form, however they may ask for additional information if they investigate the complaint.

Local Government Ombudsman

Initial Assessment

The Ombudsman will usually write to you within 5 working days of receiving your complaint to explain what will happen next.

An investigator will be assigned to the case and they will usually contact you as soon as possible to find out more information and to explain what will happen next. In some cases, the investigator may have enough information to make a decision on the complaint without speaking to you.

The Ombudsman will also inform the local authority about the complaint, even if they decide not to investigate. They will send a copy of the complaint and the Ombudsman's decision statement.

If you take your complaint to the Ombudsman, there are three main outcomes:

- Not investigated, e.g. if there was no fault or no fault serious enough to warrant an investigation
- Investigation discontinued, e.g. following initial investigations no fault was found or the local authority agree additional action while the investigation is being completed
- Investigation completed

If your complaint is investigated by the Ombudsman

The complaint will be allocated to an investigator in one of the investigation teams, and you will be informed of their name/contact details. The investigator, if they have not already done so, or if they need more information, may send the complaint to the local authority and ask for their comments and any other information they need.

When the Ombudsman has made a final decision they will write to you and explain the reasons for the decision. They will also send correspondence to the local authority.

Possible investigation outcomes:

- There was fault by the local authority concerned and the Ombudsman makes recommendations about how the body should put the matter right.
- There was fault found and the local authority had taken action to put the matter right by the time the Ombudsman complete their investigation.
- There was fault found but this did not cause significant injustice.
- There was no fault found.

If you are unhappy

If you are unhappy with the Local Government Ombudsman's (LGO's) decision

If you are unhappy with the Local Government Ombudsman's (LGO's) decision Investigators have the Ombudsman's authority to make judgements on the complaints and come to decisions. However, if you disagree with the decision and explain why, a senior member of staff who does not manage the person involved and who has not been involved themselves will review whether the decision was reasonable. The review is neutral. It will consider the comments and those of staff involved. It will not be a reinvestigation, although it can result in a reinvestigation. The Ombudsman will not usually review the decision if you just express general dissatisfaction with it.
